Residential, residential dementia and short-stay care in Harrow

The care home where life flourishes

Dauids House isn't just an award-winning care home - it's a proper little community where everyone knows your name, neighbours stop by for coffee mornings, and there's always a friendly face around. Nestled in the Honeybun estate, this 30 bed home has deep roots in the local area, with strong connections that keep life feeling warm and familiar.

Location? Spot on. Just a stone's throw from Harrow-on-the-Hill, residents can easily explore Headstone Manor and Museum, Pinner Memorial Park, and Harrow Arts Centre - perfect for a trip out or a bit of culture. Back at home, some rooms overlook the gardens, while communal spaces like the music room and reminiscence room bring people together for singalongs, chats, and plenty of shared memories.

Dauids House provided a home for my mother. The feeling of warmth and love in the house is real, and the team understand their residents' needs 100%.

Gardens for all seasons

The gardens here aren't just for show
- they're a little slice of outdoor bliss, designed for relaxing, reminiscing, and soaking up nature.

The sensory garden is a treat for the senses, packed with fragrant herbs that smell as good as they look, while the insect house keeps the birds and butterflies fluttering in for a visit – including parakeets that escaped from nearby London Zoo and worked their way up the Metropolitan Line!

At the heart of the garden stands the memorial garden, home to a Greek goddess statue, a gentle tribute to loved ones and a reminder that no one is ever forgotten in this close-knit community. And for a splash of colour? The rainbow bench, painted by residents and staff, stands proudly as a symbol of inclusivity and pride.

Whether it's for a quiet moment, a chat with friends, or simply enjoying the fresh air, the gardens at Davids House are filled with life, laughter, and a whole lot of heart.

A taste of home

Mealtimes are so much more than just food - they're a feast of flavour, culture, and community. Freshly baked cakes every single day? Yes, please. Personalised birthday cakes made to match residents' favourite flavours? Absolutely. Every bite is made with care, love, and a little extra flair.

Once a month, the kitchen takes taste buds on a world tour with Diversity Day - a chance to celebrate cultures through food. Think Sri Lankan Kukul Maas curry, Persian delicacies, and dishes that bring back memories of home cooking. It's all about honouring the rich traditions of residents and making sure no favourite flavour is left behind.

The team goes above and beyond to cater to personal tastes, dietary needs, and nostalgic cravings, making every meal a moment to savour. Because at Davids House, food isn't just fuel - it's connection, comfort, and a delicious reason to come together.

Support that speaks for itself

Care isn't just a job - it's a lifelong commitment. With some staff members having been part of the home for over 25 years, it's safe to say this team is more like family. Providing personalised residential and dementia care, they make sure every resident gets the right support, tailored to their needs, routines, and little quirks.

And it's not just about care - it's about creating moments that matter. The reminiscence room is packed with nostalgic treasures, from a Singer sewing machine to old radios and vintage telephones, helping residents reconnect with cherished memories and stories worth retelling. Over in the music room, a mix of instruments bring a little rhythm to everyday life.

It's all about trust, dedication, and making sure every resident feels not just cared for - but truly at home. Because for us, care comes straight from the heart.

Visitors tell us that staff are always warm and welcoming, and that's why Davids House is so different to other homes. We have team members who have been with us for over 25 years, and this stability and continuity of care makes all the difference.

Living later life well

When you think of a care home, what springs to mind?

Life here is anything but ordinary - every day is packed with music, laughter, and plenty of opportunities to celebrate! Residents love live performances filled with 40s, 50s, and 60s classics, bringing back memories of jiving, toe-tapping, and the golden days of rock 'n' roll.

Themed celebrations keep things lively, from Bollywood dance workshops for Diwali to marking Black History Month and Eid with music, stories, and plenty of colour. And when adventure calls, there are day trips to Woburn Safari Park, Southend seaside, and Virginia Water Park, plus relaxed outings to Squires Garden Centre and cosy local cafés for a good brew.

One of the biggest highlights? “Resident of the Day” - a VIP experience where one lucky resident gets personalised activities, extra pampering, and a meal of their choice.

At Davids House, every day is about making memories, sharing joy, and living life to the fullest!
