Residential and residential dementia care in Colwyn Bay

The care home where life flourishes

Perched beneath the wooded hillside of Bryn Euryn, Coed Craig serves up stunning valley and sea views - the kind that make you stop and take a deep breath. Just minutes from the newly revamped promenade, it's the best of both worlds: peaceful nature meets a lively, seaside buzz.

Purpose-built for comfort, independence, and dignity, the home is cleverly laid out with four wings leading to a central foyer and dining room, creating a friendly, communal vibe. There's space for 21 residential and 24 dementia care residents, with every inch of the home thoughtfully designed to feel safe, warm, and welcoming.

Whether soaking up the coastal charm, enjoying a quiet moment with a cuppa, or staying connected with the local community, our home offers a beautiful balance of tranquillity, comfort, and companionship - with a view that never gets old.

My father-in-law receives excellent care. All the staff are very helpful and pleasant, approachable, and friendly. Since my father-in-law has been at Coed Craig, he has totally immersed himself in the activities arranged and he is now mixing more with other residents.

Gardens that spark connection and calm

The gardens here aren't just pretty - they're a little slice of outdoor bliss where residents can relax, potter, and soak up the fresh air. With beautifully landscaped spaces, the star of the show is the large koi pond, home to some seriously zen-like fish that make for the perfect calming focal point.

For those who love a bit of gardening mischief, residents can get stuck into planting, pruning, and keeping the grounds looking gorgeous - because nothing beats a sense of accomplishment and a splash of dirt under the fingernails. And exciting things are on the horizon, with plans to transform an unused garage into a shared community space for residents and locals to enjoy.

Here the gardens are more than just greenery - they're places to reflect, create, and connect, whether that's with nature, neighbours, or a particularly friendly koi carp.

Sweet comfort in every bite

Our mealtimes are about laughter, good company, and plates piled high with proper, home-cooked goodness.

The kitchen team, led by a former restaurant owner (so you know it's the real deal), whips up delicious, made-from-scratch meals that get residents talking, reminiscing, and coming back for seconds.

Favourites? Steak pies, chocolate éclairs, and fish and chips - because what's a seaside home without a proper chippy tea? Menus are crafted with resident input, so every meal hits the spot while catering to individual tastes and dietary needs.

And when there's a reason to celebrate, the team goes all out - cheese and wine nights, beer tastings, and themed feasts make sure there's always something to look forward to.

Here, dining isn't just about eating - it's about sharing stories, making memories, and feeling truly at home with every bite.

Since my father-in-law has been at Coed Craig, he has totally immersed himself in the activities arranged and he is now mixing more with other residents. The care and attention received is very good and staff take time to interact and chat with him.

Living later life well

When you think of a care home, what springs to mind?

Throughout the home there is usually a buzz of activity, laughter, and plenty of moments that make every day special. Whether it's quizzes that get competitive, arts and crafts that unleash hidden creativity, or gardening sessions that bring out everyone's green thumb, there's always something happening to keep minds and bodies active.

And then there are the extra-special experiences - like virtual cruises to Mexico, where residents can soak up the culture without packing a suitcase, or themed celebrations that turn an ordinary day into a full-blown fiesta. Getting out and about is just as important, with trips to the promenade, Bodnant Gardens, and local shopping spots, keeping residents connected to the wider world and embracing new adventures.

Our thoughtful activities aren't just about passing the time - they're about bringing people together, sparking joy, and making later life as vibrant as ever.

The activities the home arrange are varied and fun for the residents and they have a minibs which is used for trips out.
